Our Special Edition is decidedly interesting in its point of view, and profitable reading to those who want to make money.

The coming Fourth of July will be a grand affair.

Court will commence on Monday the 25th of May.

THOM. M. ROBINSON is again managing and repairing harness, saddles, etc., at R. H. Shaw's "special" local.
Offers great inducements to buyers of the wood.

Between 15,000,000 and 16,000,000 pounds of logs have thus far been cut off at the smelter base.

The big flag on the Opera House was united there by Miss Reed, Room No. 2. It is the best up of any in town.

FLOOR.—Lynde is getting on a large and cheap, hand-drawn, which will be sold at lowest prices in the country.

A Williamsport lady doubts that she has purchased a new broom in years. The thoughts must be a model husband.

The festive pedalo boat is already swimming around the pavements. They seem to be unusually numerous this season.

GLORY!—Eight Centre county Railroads received a call in the Ballad of the Railroads last week, for paying their subscription.

The first quarterly meeting of this year was to commence in the M. E. church, in this borough, on Sunday, the 11th of June next.

SUDDEN DEATH.—We incidentally learn that Mr. John Welch, an aged resident, will die on Tuesday morning.

Peter O. Blattberger has recently been appointed Postmaster at Woodland, the village. John E. Potman has been appointed Master of Tyler, this county.

It isn't Spring fever that hits all the people who stand around with the hands in their pockets. It's nothing to do—and a majority of don't want anything to do.

Two men, two women, and four children of Woodstock, were lodged in their room on Saturday last, for making a trip up an office at Woodstock.

It has been suggested that the

room on Saturday last, for making a trip up an office at Woodstock.

GRANGER HEADQUARTERS.—An exchange says: The Centennial Encampment of the Patrons of Husbandry, located at Blue Springs on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, less than three miles from the exhibition building, is now ready for guests. It has capacity for 4,000 persons. The rooms are well furnished and lighted with gas. On the grounds are located telegraph, express, ticket and post offices. No telegraph wires will be sold on the premises.

After brief remarks by Messrs. Arnold, Bettis, Kerr, and others, the meeting adjourned.

WHAT THE COUNTY PAPER DO.—An exchange comes with considerable vigor, the Editor, Volmer & Co., proprietors of the House, Philadelphia, that their charge for the Centennial will be $2.50 per day—their paper publishes without pay? Not an iota of truth in it. The paper is now making a profit, and the owners frequently receive payment for services.

Dr. T. J. Boyer, Col. Walter Barlett, Judge McKenzie, Wm. M. McCullough, Esq., were equally satisfied, and made some appropriate remarks. The papers were frequently interrupted by applause.
